Sonata Suite is a disc live recorded in the slaughterhouse of Madrid in September of 2008 and with recordings in the National Auditorium of Madrid. The antecedents are recordings of orchestras that accompany the flamenco style (guitar, clapping, percussion boxes...). But for the first time a symphony orchestra plays flamenco.

For the first time a flamenco artist edits with a classic stamp (Deutsche Grammophon). "Sonata Suite" has been directed by Josep Pons and with the arrangements of Joan Albert Amargós (awarded as the best arranger of 2009) and with the co-production and guitar arrangements of Tomatito, apart from having the collaboration of Tomatito's daughter Mari Ángeles Fernández Torres not only as an interpreter in 3 songs but also as an author and composer.
