In his new album Romance de la luna Tucumana, Diego El Cigala continues to explore the Argentinian repertory but from a different musical universe: with the accompaniment of Diego García's ("El Twanguero") 40's electric guitar.

Diego el Cigala, Diego García (Andrés Calamaro's guitarist), and Changuito (percussionist) are the three pillars of this album. Classic flamenco lovers (the only one as a famous singer said) probably won't be fond of this work people who enjoyed Lágrimas Negras, Dos Lágrimas and Cigala & Tango will doubtlessly love it. The repertory of this album is similar to Cigala & Tango. You will find tango songs but also milongas, chacareras (popular Argentinian song by Mercedes Sosa) and a lot of fusion music.
